

DHARMA TRAINING PROGRAMME 2011-2014

Deepening Our Practice

The fifth Dharma Training Programme run by the UK Community of Interbeing started in October 2011. It is intended for anyone with some experience of the practice, as taught by Thich Nhat Hanh, who wishes to develop their understanding further and to share it with others. The programme will allow us to deepen our understanding of the Buddha's teachings, and the practice of mindfulness in the context of a series of retreats with a committed sangha. Because we practise for each other, and ourselves the solid base we build together will give us the stability, joy and confidence to go out and share the fruits of this understanding with the wider community. Sangha members are encouraged to come to all 5 of the retreats, although it is possible to attend and benefit from a single retreat. Participants are expected to be members of the UK Community of Interbeing (pay a membership fee to the Community of Interbeing and receive the members' magazine 'Here and Now') or to join at the time of registration.

The 'Deepening Our Practice' programme of retreats for 2011-2013 will cover the follow themes:

- Retreat 1 Meditation (Autumn 2011)
- Retreat 2 Transformation (27-29 Jan 2012 – Crossways, Northants and 17-19 February 2012 - Sheldon, Devon)
- Retreat 3 Interbeing (Autumn 2013)
- Retreat 4 Living Sustainably (2013)
- Retreat 5 Impermanence (2014)

The retreats and programme will be co-ordinated by the UK Dharmacharyas Martin Pitt, Murray Corke and Jane Coatesworth and nominated Dharmacharya Vari McLuskie, as well as the core community and other members of the UK Sangha. One or two of the Dharmacharyas will lead each retreat.

Booking for the following retreat is now open. Please use the booking form below to book your place.

RETREAT 2a: Title: Deepening Our Practice – Transformation (led by Murray Corke and Vari McLuskie)
27-29 January 2012 - Crossways, Northants (Friday evening to Sunday pm)

RETREAT 2b: Title: Deepening Our Practice – Transformation (led by Martin Pitt)
17-19 February 2012 – Sheldon, Devon (Friday evening to Sunday pm)

RETREAT PROGRAMME

The Dharma Training Programme aims to enable the Sangha to strengthen and deepen. For each retreat a text will be chosen as a basis for training which participants are invited to study in advance. It is anticipated that the following areas of practice will also be part of the overall retreat programme: Formal sitting and walking meditation, Outdoor walking meditation, Deep relaxation, Noble silence, Use of bells, Beginning Anew, Gathas for mindfulness in daily living Touching the Earth, Mindful speaking and listening, Chanting, Conscious breathing, Use of the Peace Treaty. Retreatants will be asked to take responsibility (with others) for preparing meals. Periods of working meditation will be built into our daily practice. Sangha members local to the retreat venue will be asked to contribute to the administration of the retreat where possible.

COST OF THE RETREATS

The cost of the retreat is outlined in the booking form below and has been kept as low as possible. Most accommodation is simple, and shared. Catering will be planned with simplicity and cost in mind. It will not be possible to cater for special dietary requirements – all food will be simple and free from meat and dairy products. Retreatants have the option to make a Dana contribution at the retreat.
